About Carol

Carol has spent her whole life getting to know Australia's exciting culture and different places--from busy cities to quiet outback areas. She then uses this extensive knowledge to assist individuals and families during their transition to Australia.

For Carol, the most fulfilling part of working with people relocating to Australia is sharing local knowledge to ensure a successful transition. "I really enjoy getting to know the families...I appreciate that this is a very difficult [and] stressful time for them so being able to secure a place for them to live before they arrive and alleviating some of their stress is very rewarding," she shares.

Carol's top tips for anyone moving to Australia include:

- Get to know people who live in your local community through common shared interests such as mothers or sporting groups. These people will become your Aussie family.
- Take advantage of council websites. They provide a wealth of information about local services.
- Join community Facebook groups. They are great for any questions you may have.
