About Cherie

Cherie's journey in relocation includes living in Zimbabwe, New Zealand, Singapore and Malaysia before ultimately choosing Sydney, Australia as her home. This personal experience, combined with her keen interest in searching for properties she would consider feeling comfortable living in, makes her particularly adept at identifying potential homes that would suit her clients' needs.

Having relocated several times, Cherie can identify with many of the challenges faced and can put herself in a client's shoes. So, as a relocation consultant, she finds fulfilment when the options based on targeted needs criteria fall into place for a client.

Her top tip for anyone moving is to make friends with local families and learn about what was available and interesting; for her this was joining a yoga group, walking group and mum's coffee meet-up's, attending children's sporting activities or gatherings. She also recommends following the suburb Facebook page, getting to know suburb neighbours and joining the library to hear what was happening around.
